Flying squad throw flash grenade to startle gang

REPORTER
NAZIA DEWJI

Police lay in wait for armed robbers throwing a terrifying flash grenade to sabotage the robbers' dawn raid.

The gang waved a gun as they ran towards staff outside the PC World and Currys superstore in New Malden at 7am on December 27.

They had cased out the retailer three times in December.

But flying squad officers scared them off with the grenade, which residents mistook for gunfire, and chased them down.

Even if they had not been stopped by police they would not have been able to open the safe until 10am as it was on a timer.

There was £70,000 in a safe at the Burlington Road shop, money in the tills and thousands of pounds worth of electrical goods at the store.

Delivering a jail term for three of the defendants at Kingston Crown Court, Judge Ann Mulligan, called the situation "tragic".

Former Fulham branch PC World employee Hamza Dahir, 25, and Ricco Powell-Allen, 21, had previously admitted to conspiracy to rob and possession of a firearm.

Co-defendants David Tesfaalem, 22, of Stannard

House, Plough Lane, Wimbledon, admitted conspiracy to rob and Liban Ali, 25, of Pennethorne House, Wye Street, Battersea, admitted conspiracy to burgle.

They were sentenced on Friday in front of a packed public gallery full of friends and family.

Judge Ann Mulligan said: "It seems to me in this case that it is really rather tragic.

"You Mr Dahir, a man of good character and 25 years of age, and you Mr Ali, 25 years of age, also of good character.

"Mr Powell-Allen and Mr Tesfaalem 21 years of age – previous convictions but none like these.

"My view relating to the four of you is that this is indeed a tragedy.

"All four of you have considerable family support and all four of you have let your families down enormously."

Powell-Allen: Six years' jail

SAFETY CONCERNS: Horrified shoppers saw popular and talented boy fall to death Teen killed in Bentall Centre fall

REPORTER

NAZIA DEWJI

ndewji@
london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston shoppers and the leader of the council have called for better safety measures inside the Bentall Centre after a teenager fell to his death from the balcony last week.

Former Coombe Boys' School pupil Joon Kyu Kim, 15, fell from the top floor just before 5pm last Thursday.

He died in hospital an hour later.

The Korean student, who had just completed his GCSE exams, landed on the basement floor outside Mothercare.

He had lived with his father and brother.

Kingston Council leader Kevin Davis tweeted: "Desperate news of boy falling to death in Bentall Centre. Not the first to die this way. Time for talks on how to prevent future incidents."

In January 2011, mother-of-two Alexis Sims, 45, from Teddington, who suffered from depression, killed herself after jumping from the top floor.

Others took to Twitter. Tony Axelrod tweeted: "The tragedy at the Bentall Centre yesterday must prompt action to screen off high levels. How many more incidents does there have to be?"

JadieBoooo tweeted: "Seriously the Bentall Centre need to change the security measures."

Zoe Homewood said: "The kids' section should be moved, rather than be in the basement where they land."

And Zsuzsika Mai tweeted:

Dreamed of becoming a vet: Joon Kyu Kim, 15

"To avoid further situations like this, they need to change things, make the barriers higher or add nets or something."

Shoppers were led out of the building and police cordoned off the area while paramedics attended to Joon, who had been at school earlier in the day.

Kingston police are still investigating the circumstances surrounding Joon's death, which is being treated as non-suspicious.

A spokesman from the Bentall Centre said: "We are deeply saddened by the tragic incident that occurred on Thursday, July 17, and extend our heartfelt sympathy to the deceased's family, as well as those who witnessed what happened."

"A police investigation is currently underway and the Health and Safety Executive [Kingston Council's] are also undertaking an audit. The centre is co-operating fully with the authorities."

Tributes to teenager: Flowers were left at the Bentall Centre after the tragedy

KT86523

A postmortem examination was due to take place this week.

Deborah Walls, headteacher of Coombe Boys School, said: "We are deeply shocked by the tragic loss of one of our students and our thoughts are with Joon's family and friends."

"Joon was an asset to the school, an incredibly hard-working student who contributed a lot to his peers and his year group. We will remember him with great fondness and affection."

"This is a terribly sad and difficult time for all of us. Pupils, staff and parents are helping each other and being given all the support they need at this difficult time."

Friends and family have been leaving flowers and tributes outside the Bentall Centre this week.

One friend said: "He was a person full of aspirations and had a lot of goals ahead of him."

"He was saving up money to buy a personal computer as he was an avid gamer, was academically adequate, but sought to improve himself by extended revision."

"His dream was to become a vet. He was a great boy and that's what aches my heart."

"He would go to the Apple Store [in the Bentall Centre] and use their Macbooks to play Minecraft."

"We always used to see him there after school wearing his school uniform."

Another classmate said: "He was by far the nicest person I know and everyone will miss him."

Estate agent asks: 'Want a viewing with this tart?'

REPORTER

ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@london.newsquest.co.uk

A woman trying to arrange a viewing with a Surbiton estate agent received a smutty email calling her a "tart" and suggesting she might "bend over".

Zoe Butler, 25, had asked the agent about renting in Surbiton with boyfriend Orrin Duhaney, 21.

KT Residential estate agent Daniel Grove replied offering viewing times at 6pm.

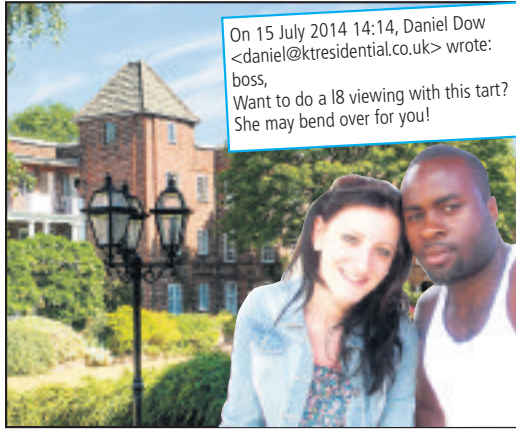

But beneath his message was another one apparently sent from director Daniel Dow's email address.

The email said: "Boss, want to do a l8 [late] viewing with this tart? She may bend over for you!"

Ms Butler replied: "Do you generally talk about your potential tenants like this?"

Mr Grove said: "Not at all, it was an extremely immature and inappropriate comment made by my colleague on our internal system."

"I sincerely apologise for the

"I assure you that the comment does not in any

"I sincerely apologise for any distress this may have caused."

Contacted last Tuesday night, Mr Dow denied he was the author of the smutty comments.

He said: "As much as I would like to get to the bottom of it, I will have to deny I wrote the email."

"I guess I could have been hacked. It could be someone trying to frame me. There are people out there who might want to tarnish my name."

"I think the best thing to do is apologise if anything has come out that has upset someone."

Ms Butler, who works for social services and lives in Guildford, said: "When I first read it I was just shocked. I kept thinking 'Am I reading this right?'"

"I'm not very good at contacting people and I plucked up the courage to do it."

"It made me feel very small and upset. It's so unprofessional of them. How often do they say that about potential tenants?"

"They haven't really apologised – they've tried to make out they weren't talking about me."

Rowing on river for Rotary

More than 50 teams battled on the Thames in the annual Dragon Boat races at the weekend.

Crowds gathered to watch the Canbury Girls and the Love Kingston crews row the stretch in three heats on Sunday.

The riverside event organised by Kingston Rotary Club is expected to raise more than £50,000 for charity this year.

Rotarian Phillip Holt said: "It was extremely busy – thousands of spectators, just ordinary people watching, which was excellent."

"The weather was absolutely fantastic until the final and then the heavens opened up. But it was an incredibly successful year. People who weren't involved were saying 'How do we get involved?' So next year will be even bigger and better."

Keith Maund, who chaired the organising committee, said: "There was a great community atmosphere and everyone enjoyed themselves."

The Canbury Boys from the Canbury Arms pub were winners on the day and were given a prize by Kingston mayor Ken Smith.

Surveillance on shop

In mitigation for Powell-Allen, of Summerley Street, Earlsfield, defence counsel Paul Crampin said: "He had been recruited the evening before – pardon my expression – to make up the numbers."

Speaking on behalf of Somali-born Dahir, of no fixed address, Ian Henderson said: "He wants to do his time and then see the light at the end of the tunnel."

Ali, a father-of-three, who had been the would-be getaway driver, was arrested three miles away by police.

He had carried out surveillance of the electrical retailer on three occasions in December, the court heard.

In fact, he had even received a message from an unknown person the night before saying: "Yo what's happening bro or is it off so I can call it a night – getting late out here."

Judge Mulligan received letters from the defendants and their families ahead of the sentencing. Of the themes in the letters, she said: "One is remorse and regret and the other from families is 'Please be lenient, please be lenient'."

"But I must make clear I have a public duty."

Having been told the gun used for the attack had not been in good working condition and may not have been useable, Judge Mulligan said: "The members of staff there were simply terrified."

Powell-Allen was sentenced to six years in jail, Dahir was given five years and Tesfaalem, who had breached an earlier suspended sentence after being found with cannabis in his underwear last year, was handed four years.

Ali was given a two-year suspended sentence, based on his lesser involvement.

Plans: Kingstons House in Coombe Road Deadlinepix KT86380

REPORTER

ROSS LOGAN

ross.logan@london.newsquest.co.uk

An office block could be Kingston's next free school after being bought by the Department for Education.

Kingstons House, in Coombe Road, was sold to the Education Funding Agency (EFA), an executive agency of the DfE, for an undisclosed fee last month.

It is understood the agency plans to turn the five-storey office block into a one-form entry free school.

Pupils would benefit from a passenger lift, comfort cooling in the office block that is near Norbiton station.

The deal was agreed with developers CNM Estates, which is based inside the building and has had it under option for the past five years from owner Chalford Property.

Kingston-based property consultant Cattaneo has been appointed property manager for the Secretary of State.

CNM Estates chairman Wahid Samady said: "We had some discussions with the EFA and thought it would be better to make it a school.

"There's a need for schools and there's not enough sites, so on balance, we thought this was the right deal.

"I think the attraction is it's got a car park for about 50 or 60 cars, so there's a lot of outside space.

"It would convert perfectly into a school."

There are currently between 12 and 14 businesses based in Kingstons House, including Kingston Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber chief executive Jerry Irving said: "I've spoken to Cattaneo and they said that at this point there's no definitive timescale for when the property is to be vacated.

"There is a reasonable amount of space behind the property, but I don't know how they plan to use the whole building, or whether they will keep it."

It would not be the first time a free school has been opened in a converted office block.

Parkfield School in Bournemouth opened last year in a seven-storey building, housing more than 400 pupils.

YOUR VOTE MATTERS

MAKE SURE YOU'RE IN

The way we register to vote changed on 10 June 2014

Previously, voter registration was done by household. One person in a household filled in a form entering the details of everyone who lives there. The people who were eligible were then registered to vote.

Now, under the new system called Individual Electoral Registration, everyone needs to register themselves individually. It's the biggest change to the voter registration system in 100 years.

Automatic transfer

Most people who are currently registered to vote will be registered automatically under this new system. This is because local elections staff at the council have been comparing their electoral registers to other government records to confirm who people are.

However some people will not match against these records and so cannot be transferred automatically to the new register. This might happen where people have moved home since the record was last updated, or there may be a difference in the spelling of names in the two records.

Letters

The Council will be writing to all local residents telling them about this change with letters sent out from Thursday 24 July. In those letters it will be clear if you need to take action or not.

Councillor Gaj Wallooppillai, Deputy Leader said: "We're writing to local residents who were on our last published register telling them about the change and letting them know if they've been registered under the new Individual Electoral Registration system.

"In most cases, you won't need to do anything but if you do receive a letter inviting you to register, it's important you respond so that you can have your say in future elections."

To register to vote go to www.gov.uk/register-to-vote or to find out more about the new way of registering visit www.gov.uk/yourvotematters

Will my details be shared with other organisations?

Using information received from the public, electoral registration officers keep two registers – the electoral register and the open register (also known as the edited register).

The electoral register lists the names and addresses of everyone who is registered to vote in public elections. The register is used to make sure only eligible people can vote. It is also used for other limited purposes specified in law, such as detecting fraud, calling people for jury service and checking credit applications.

The open (or edited) register is an extract of the electoral register not used for elections. It can be bought by any person, company or organisation and used, for example, by businesses and charities to confirm name and address details.

Your name and address will be included in the open register unless you ask for them to be removed. Removing your details from the open register does not affect your right to vote or your credit rating.

To be removed from the open register complete the online form at www.kingston.gov.uk/elections, email electoral.services@kingston.gov.uk or write to Electoral Services, Guildhall, High Street, Kingston upon Thames, KT1 1EU.

Murderer jailed for 22 years by Spanish

REPORTER

JON SHARMAN

jon.sharman@
london.newsquest.co.uk

A murderer sentenced to 22 years in prison in Spain will be extradited to the UK to answer questions over the death of his mother.

Sean Heiss, 30, of Surbiton, was imprisoned by a Spanish judge on June 26 after being found guilty of murdering a mother-of-three in Barcelona two years ago.

Judge Carmen Sanchez-Albornoz said that after being extradited under a European arrest warrant, Heiss will be sent back to Spain to serve his sentence following any UK legal proceedings.

Heiss's lawyers tried to have the murder charge dismissed on mental health grounds.

But Judge Sanchez-Albornoz concluded: "There was no mental disorder of any kind, nor transitory mental disorder, so the jurors unanimously held that the accused was not subject to sufficient stress or an intense mental state, affecting his knowledge and agency, that would explain his actions as in any way."

Happier times: Sean Heiss with his mother Margot

She said psychiatrists concluded that Heiss "does not present any kind of mental illness, although he does display personality characteristics such as insensitivity, lack of empathy and guilt, and was uninterested in the consequences of his actions, with poor behavioural control, impulsiveness and lack of responsibility".

A prison doctor who examined Heiss discarded a suggested diagnosis of bipolar disorder, and in sentencing it was revealed Heiss instead faked depression in order to gain benefits, before a doctor uncovered the ruse.

Heiss stabbed mother-of-three Clementina Nauta Liscano 19 times outside a Barcelona cash-point, including in the head and throat, even breaking the blade of the knife.

He had slipped through the fingers of police in San Sebastian months earlier.

When asked whether an investigation into how Heiss walked free had taken place, the Metropolitan Police said: "It is not possible to establish if any MPS staff within all MPS departments have had any dealings in relation to a Mr Sean Heiss or the Spanish police which relate to what happened in San Sebastian."

Former Richard Challoner student Tony Achenbach said: "He summed up what a great teacher should be and the education system will be a worse place without him – a great teacher and he will always be well respected by all our year and fellow pupils alike."

Fillet of Sole with Crispy Ginger

FREE TREAT RECIPE IN TOMORROW'S PAPER

Chocolate cake with Raspberries

3 ProPoints® Value
Cook time: 15 min
Prep time: 15 min
Serves: 4

Sole, a quick-cooking, mild fish, is topped with slightly spicy, pan-fried ginger for a perfect flavour combo. Bright green pak choi adds a wonderful colour contrast.

Ingredients

- 10 spray(s) Cooking Spray, Calorie Controlled
- 450g Dover sole, whole, raw, four 4 oz fillets
- 2 teaspoons (grated) Ginger, Root, fresh, about 2-inches each, peeled and cut into thin matchsticks
- 2 tablespoons Soy Sauce, divided
- 5 spray(s) Cooking Spray, Calorie Controlled
- 2 clove(s) Garlic, thinly sliced
- 1 teaspoons (grated) Ginger, Root, fresh

Instructions

- Place a large nonstick frying pan over medium-high heat; add 5 sprays cooking spray. Place fillets in pan and cook, flipping gently so they do not break apart, about 2 to 3 minutes per side; remove fish to a plate and cover to keep warm.
- Add another 5 sprays of cooking spray to same frying pan. When hot, add ginger matchsticks; cook for 3 minutes, turning once. Add 1 tablespoon of soy sauce and cook until all liquid is absorbed; remove ginger from pan.
- Off heat, coat frying pan with remaining 5 sprays cooking spray; add garlic and grated ginger and cook for 30 seconds. Add pak choi and cook until wilted, about 3 minutes; stir in remaining tablespoon of soy sauce.

Notes

- Serve with pak choi. Ideally need 225g, cut in half lengthwise and wash in cold water. Cook in a frying pan until wilted, about 3 minutes. Place pak choi in the centre of 4 plates. Top each with 1 piece of fish and 2 tablespoons of crispy ginger.

Elmbridge Meadows bramble problem has been allowed to get out of hand River walk in peril of being devoured by wall of weeds

Last week my daughter was knocked down by a dog on the path running parallel to the Hogsmill river.

The problem was not the dog, but the path, which was only wide enough for two people to pass one another at that point along the path.

It is made narrow by a wall of weeds that have been allowed to encroach on to the path. And when I say weeds, what I encountered was an impenetrable 6ft high combination of brambles, stinging nettles and climbers. Later that day I came across a council sign naming the area Elmbridge Meadows.

Now my understanding is that a meadow is a field or habitat, sometimes near a river, vegetated primarily by grasses and other non-woody plants.

It appears that the paths that run the length of the meadow and a patch cleared at the northern end of the site are the only areas that the public are able to use, a small percentage of the fields.

Even some of the seats have been enveloped by weeds and, for most of the length of the river path, the river is obscured by overgrowth.

At the entrance to the meadow half way along Elmbridge Avenue there is a council sign that reads "no golf". You wish, but that is a clear indication of how the fields were landscaped in the past.

Elmbridge Meadows is a valuable recreational resource that has been allowed to fall into dereliction, an act of deliberate negligence by Kingston Council.

TERENCE KINGSTON
 Elmbridge Avenue

How refreshingly honest is MP Zac

How refreshing to find an MP who listens to constituents and appears to be honest and honourable, Mr Zac Goldsmith, MP for Richmond (Total recall, July 11).

There is far too much corruption being brushed under the carpet within councils.

Open any local paper every week and there are complaints of every type, from the most minor abuse of office equipment to corruption.

Sadly, constituents know that there is no law that will do anything about it because the law for public servants is different to that of the rest of the population. This is a far cry from the old rates offices and the public servants they are supposed to be.

The Taxpayers' Alliance do es a great job in identifying these councils, but stop short there, as it does not follow anything up.

Zac Goldsmith is right, voters should be given the power to get rid of councillors and MPs who abuse their positions, because the unfair voting system means they can still get in by default even if you do not vote for them.

This is never going to happen because corruption is acceptable in the House of Commons (parliamentary privileges).

Perhaps Zac Goldsmith could apply to be the next PM?

Horrific sight of what's been done to market

I took my mother – an old Kingstonian – to see the newly created market.

"Where is it?" she said, while seated by Rymans.

"This, what you see is it, Ma."
 "What? Don't bring me here any more. It's so heartbreaking to see what the council has done to it. It has taken not only regular stallholders' livelihoods away, it has taken the character of the market away. On second thoughts, make that 'thrown it away'."

She can remember when it stretched as far as where Costa is now. Names she recalled were: Websters, Money-Fish Stalls, Jimmy Cochrane Senior, Jackie Clark Senior, Flowers; Barnes, Brokeburys, Danny Collins, and Kent's Fruit and Veg.

Her brother, George Coxon, was a very well known milkman who served many of them and she said that if he was alive now he would be not turning, but spinning turbo-speed, in his grave.

TWEETS of the WEEK

@CurlyAdventurer made a worthwhile trip:
 So basically we flew back from our 6 wk Asian adventure yday to watch @RealTimVine in a New Malden pub tonight. Fortunately he was worth it!

But @charliesurbiton was having less fun:
 Twitter keeps telling me I have notifications when I don't. This is distressing for such a narcissist @surboman dispensed some questionable advice:

 I tell ya – if you pretend your gonna puke or gag a bit... taxi drivers go twice as fast! Top tip to get home fast! #surbiton

But @MPSKingston were on the ball:
 Clean up after your dog. Don't leave it to someone else to pick up...

@cheekygirlie loves the law:
 Wow, have just seen poss the most gorge man to ever walk the earth! an a policeman too, in uniform!
 @sainsburys Surbiton who is he?
 lol

Revamp is fantastic

Having read recent letters in the Kingston Guardian, I wanted to say how fantastic the new market is.

It is a really good blend of old and new, using contemporary design and materials against the backdrop of Kingston's historic buildings.

For a retail-focused town like Kingston to remain prosperous and competitive against other retail locations and the threat of online shops, it must remain relevant and attractive for existing and new visitors.

The market is a great step towards this – a lively, modern, attractive food and drink destination.

The Arnould School of Dance and Drama was established 65 years ago and has grown into a widely acclaimed theatre academy, with classes in Surbiton, Kingston, Chessington and Wimbledon.

It offers a happy environment with a high standard of training with 100 per cent success in RAD Ballet, ISTD Modern and Tap examinations and in LAMDA drama examinations.

We are currently taking registrations for 2015 and 2016, with some limited availability for 2014.

Our Pre-Prep is housed in a spacious, light-filled purpose-built building and is home to our youngest children, aged 4-7. Children are accepted into Reception and settle well in our nurturing, happy environment where each child feels safe and secure, ready to learn and achieve their potential.

Each day begins with a whole school assembly and the children have regular opportunities each term to meet with their class partners from the Prep Department. The pupils have opportunities to access the garden area at the back of each classroom to enhance their learning through outdoor investigation and exploration.

Specialist teaching of PE, Games, Mind Lab, ICT, French and Music ensure that no two days are the same and that they are challenged in their thinking and learning, promoting high academic standards. The children enjoy taking part in whole-school activities such as Book Week, House Competitions and Charity Days.

This new partnership will provide the school with excellent facilities and a high quality playing surface for both training sessions and fixtures.

At the ALTAR of ROCK

TELLISON

● Kevin Devine, Tellison and Emanuel Ayvas; All Saints' Church, Market Place, Kingston; Tuesday, August 5, time tbc with curfew of 10pm; £9; call 020 8549 5871, banquetrecords.com.

Don't be fooled by the assertion on their Twitter bio that “everyone hates us”. Because if there's one place indie rock band Tellison should feel loved it's Kingston, writes Sarah Howden.

The group have been performing in the town since forming 11 years ago, and even recruited bassist Andrew Tickell, from Surbiton, after a show for Banquet Records.

Now they will return for a special performance at

All Saints' Church, where they will be supporting Brooklyn singer songwriter Kevin Devine on his UK tour.

Emanuel Ayvas, better known as the frontman of orchestral rock band Emanuel and the Fear, completes the line-up.

Stephen H Davidson, the band's guitarist and lead vocalist, says Tellison are no strangers to the Kingston music scene.

He says: “Banquet records helped us learn how to be a band. We've got lots of friends in Kingston and there's a vibrant music community.

“We grew up playing and seeing bands in Kingston. It was the first place it occurred to me that the people on stage are the same as the people in the audience.

He has never been to All Saints' Church before and says the band are excited to play in the historic venue: “I've seen photos and it looks incredible. There's something magical about playing in these older spaces.”

Tellison have drawn favourable comparisons to the likes of REM and Bruce Springsteen, and have toured with Biffy Clyro, Mumford and Sons and Bombay Bicycle Club.

The band are known for their witty lyrics and anthemic sound, and their tracks Edith and Gallery have been used on Made in Chelsea and The Inbetweeners respectively.

Davidson jokes that being featured on Made in Chelsea is a “helpful thing to tell to the average layman”.

He says: “In the music industry, and life in general, the things that happen to you are never things you aspire to or anticipate.”

The band are just putting the finishing touches to a new album.

Davidson says: “We haven't been on tour for a year.

“This will be the first chance we've had to play loads of new songs.”

MAIDEN impression

Three women with effortless folk spunk will be closing the Ram Folk Club's summer line-up with a stand-out performance this month.

Said the Maiden, made up of Hannah Elizabeth, Kathy Pilkinton and Jess Distill, will play the accordion, kulele, guitar, violin and flute in their charming set.

The trio who are still newcomers on the folk scene, have already supported acts such as the Fisherman's Friends and Dave Swarbrick.

A spokesman from the Ram Folk Club says: "Already making a splash, they make their music with infectious enthusiasm, bringing their own style and breathing new life into traditional songs."

"In just one year they have found themselves playing dozens of gigs around the country, from folk clubs and fundraisers to festivals – these ladies are going places."

● Said the Maiden; Ram Folk Club, the Old Cranleigh Club, Portsmouth Road, Thames Ditton; July 25, doors open 8.15pm; £10; theramclub.co.uk.

CATCHING ON

Ducks may swim placidly across serene ponds, yet all the while more unusual creatures – like terrapins, eels, and newts – can lurk in their depths.

The fishing season began in June, and the long school summer holidays are upon us again, so the time is ripe to pick up a fishing rod and discover more about the fish and what is living beneath the surface of your local pond or river.

Nature expert Tony Drakeford, from Wimbledon, says: "The anglers are down by the water now. A lot of fishermen go for big monsters like carp, which are in local ponds and often stocked there.

"The bigger the carp, the better, but they are quite wary. Sometimes fishermen stay out all night with lanterns hoping to catch something."

Other popular catches include roach, pike, bream and tench. On the flip side, an underwater reptile that fisherman do not want to encounter is the terrapin.

Misguided pet owners often get fed up with terrapins and dump them in local ponds where they wreck havoc by eating fish, frogspawn, tadpoles, newts, toads and other pond life.

Drakeford says: "There can be eels in various ponds and nobody knows they are there, they are slippery creatures. The baby frogs are coming out of the water now and the newts have been busy spawning."

Fishing for hours on end gives anglers the chance to watch the natural world go by, including dragonflies, damselflies or the occasional heron.

Drakeford says: "It's wonderful to watch them. At night bats will fly over the water picking up flies from the surface."

Anglers

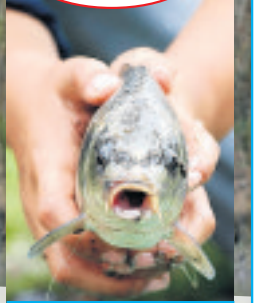

need permits to fish in many ponds and lakes like those on Clapham Common,

Wandsworth Common and Tooting Common and in Battersea Park in London. Elsewhere, such as at South Norwood Lake, it is possible to just fish for the day and many enthusiasts belong to fishing clubs like the Wandle Piscators based on the River Wandle.

Anyone who goes fishing in freshwater must have a rod licence, which can be bought from the Environment Agency.

For tips on getting into fishing visit the Angling Trust's website at anglingtrust.net.

Parents dig deep for children Buying with the help of mum and dad

The bank of mum and dad is continuing to play an important role in their offspring's first property purchase with current homeowners having received, on average, half of their deposit (49 per cent) from their parents or their partner's parents.

The study from Santander Mortgages reveals that more than two thirds (68 per cent) of parents who provided money to help their children get on the property ladder will get nothing back in return as it was intended as a gift.

Almost three quarters (72 per cent) of females were gifted the monies by their parents, in comparison to only 62 per cent of men.

Almost three in 10 (29 per cent) received the money as the equivalent of an interest-free loan while only three per cent contributed towards their children's deposit as an investment.

For those that are yet to buy their first home, the average amount they look to receive from parents is £17,900.

With the average first time buyers deposit being just under £25,000 this represents a 71.6 per cent subsidy.

More than one in five (22 per cent) estimates that their parents will contribute £20,000 or more.

A third (34 per cent) of those who have children yet to buy a home say they will contribute money towards a deposit in order to help them on to the property ladder.

Miguel Sard, head of Santander Mortgages, said: "Raising a deposit can be a huge challenge and our research shows that many rely on financial help from their parents in order to get a foot onto the property ladder."

"Buying your first home can be daunting but there are ways to

A third of parents are willing to help their children get on the property ladder

"The mortgage market is still competitive, with options available to suit most budgets."

More homes for sale

The latest figures from Experian's Property Index show that between April and June 2014, the number of homes that entered the market for sale valued at over £500,000 rose by almost a third (30 per cent), while houses for sale in the second highest price band (£250,000 to £500,000) rose by 16 per cent over the last 12 months.

This is the highest level since 2010 for both price bands.

Homes worth more than £250,000 made up 41 per cent of all homes for sale during the past three months compared to 37 per cent for the same three months in 2013. Jonathan Westley, managing director of consumer information services at Experian UK and Ireland, said: "The growth in houses prices suggests that homeowners may have made reasonable capital gains on their existing properties, especially as they seek to move up the property ladder."

He added: "Our latest index shows that higher-end properties now form a greater proportion of properties appearing for sale, implying it is now second or third time buyers, who are more active in the housing market."

HERE COMES

The next twelve months will be a 'critical period' for those wishing to make money from UK property investments, a leading housing expert has warned today.

This year - 2014 - is being described as a 'golden era' for those planning to invest in buy-to-let schemes, or simply get their first foot on the housing ladder.

Securing such investments over the coming months will allow homeowners to reap the financial rewards of a property boom, expected between 2018 and 2020.

It's thought this boom could see houses across the country rise by at least 25 per cent, meaning in some areas the average family home could increase in value by £100,000.

Ian Samuels, who runs The Property Investor, which advises others on how best to invest in bricks and mortar, says that despite house prices being out of reach for many, they will "never be this low again".

He stresses that, in terms of the housing market, Britain is now "post-recession", and that the recovery is only going to go from strength to strength, with prices continuing in an upward trajectory.

Crucially, for those looking to invest in property, the areas outside London are the ones offering the most potential.

London prices, he says, are artificially inflated due to money being invested from outside the UK. But in other UK cities, the housing growth is likely to be steadier – while at the same time, offering valuable investment potential.

THE LETTINGS BOOM

Ian Samuels, author of Property Tycoon: A Seven-step Guide to Becoming a Property Millionaire, has himself made a substantial income from buy-to-let investments over the past 20 years, surviving two periods of boom and bust.

He said: “The next 12 months is the golden era of property investment, with a property boom within the next four years.

“House prices started increasing again for the first time since the recession from the back end of 2013. We are now seeing property pick up in price, slowly at the moment but it will climb a lot quicker in coming years.

“Now is the time to snap up property as it will never be this low again. I recommend investing anywhere outside of London as the capital should be treated as a separate entity and, in property terms, is isolated.” He added that fear was a major thing holding people back from investing in a property portfolio.

He added: “With all the bad publicity surrounding banks, investments and pension schemes, people simply don’t know where to invest anymore.

“In the long term, however, property is the best place to invest. History teaches us that property values stand the test of time.”

As well as being fuelled by Britain’s increasing population, lack of affordable housing and “backlog” of first-time buyers now getting on the property ladder, the anticipated boom is likely to be driven by pensioners, looking to escape poor-value pensions by investing in property instead. Since March this year, pensioners are no longer obliged to take an annuity when they retire but can instead use their money how they wish.

Many are likely to use cash from their pension pot to buy a house or flat.

Areas such as Bournemouth, Brighton and Windsor are expected to see the biggest hikes – but most areas of the country look set to benefit.

Brandon M-cleans up Wanderers

Sutton's former Surrey and Weybridge batsman Seren Waters, right and Brandon McLean condemned Malden Wanderers to Surrey Championship Division One defeat at Cranleigh on Saturday.

Waters (4-47) and McLean (4-43) dismissed Wanderers for 171 and although opener Waters went for a duck, McLean (26) was at the crease as the hosts won by six wickets.

Skipper Giles Puckles' men go to second-bottom Esher – 10 points behind Malden in the table – this week.

Champion stuff: Moe Sbihi and his Team GB men's four team-mates have swept all before them this summer

Four men in a boat ready for worlds

Surbiton's Moe Sbihi has warned Team GB men's four has plenty of room for improvement ahead of the World Championships next month, writes Stuart Amos.

The 26-year-old will race in the blue riband event in Amsterdam in August alongside fellow Molesey Boat Club men Andrew Triggs Hodge and George Nash, with Alex Gregory completing the crew.

Performance director Sir David Tanner and chief coaches Jurgen Grobler and Paul Thompson have largely kept faith with the squad that has delivered 31 medals at World Cup and European level this season – 12 of them gold.

And Sbihi is confident his boat will only get better between now and getting on the start line in Holland.

"I'm excited looking ahead to Amsterdam. I'm looking forward to getting our heads down over the next couple of weeks and seeing what changes and speed increases we can make," he said.

"Of course the season we've had so far has given us a lot of confidence – it's almost been perfect in some ways, but we know as a crew that there's much more to give.

"The challenging part and the exciting part is trying to find that bit extra and seeing how much we can improve in the next couple of weeks because I don't think we're the finished article yet."

JOY OF SIX: Goal drought not a problem as Andre gets in shape

McCollin keeps his cool

SPORTS EDITOR
STUART AMOS

samos@
london.newsquest.co.uk

Andre McCollin is comfortable with the feeling of déjà vu at Kingstonian – providing it means his promotion duck is finally broken come May.

Twelve months ago the 28-year-old struggled to find the net during pre-season before going on to forge a 50-goal partnership with departed frontman Ryan Moss as Ks reached the Ryman Premier League play-offs.

Roll the clock forward a year and the former Yeovil Town has found the net once so far while new strike rivals Elvis Hammond and Nathaniel Pinney have eight between them.

But McCollin is not concerned about his slow start by comparison and is hoping his exploits in front of goal this term will bring the prospect of Conference South football this time next year.

"I think I only scored once in pre-season last year. There is no need to panic," he said.

"I do not feel any threat to my position, yet. When the season starts is the time it counts and all I'm doing now is getting myself fit.

"I had a good holiday in Tenerife with the family and spent a lot of time drinking Strawberry daiquiri cocktails and cider, so I've got to shift that first.

"I've never been promoted with a team before.

"I've always been the top goalscorer at whichever club I've been. That is the norm for me.

Off the mark: (Clockwise from top) Ks defender Matt Drage, left, and Tommy Kavanagh cannot stop Whytealeafe's Ryan Fowler from having the honour of scoring the first goal on the club's new 3G surface; Andre McCollin was again goal shy at the weekend; and Nathaniel Pinney scored his fifth and sixth goals of pre-season in the second half on Saturday

Pictures: SP81804

"I want to do something more than the norm this year and promotion would be a real accomplishment.

"We have kept 80 per cent of a great squad and the 20 per cent we have added this year look very good so far.

"The strikers that have come in add strength in depth, so the responsibility of scoring goals does not fall on one or two people.

"We came close last year and I think we are stronger this time around, so hopefully we'll achieve what we set out to do."

Pinney scored his third brace of the season as his two second half strikes salvaged a 2-2 draw at Ryman Division One South new boys Whytealeafe.

The match marked the opening of the club's new 3G pitch, where Ryan Fowler had the honour of netting the first goal on the new surface.

Boss Tommy Williams' first competitive game in charge at Kingstonian will be on the road at Enfield Town when the new Ryman Premier League season gets underway on August 9.

Ks fans do not have to wait long for home comforts, however, as Dulwich Hamlet make the trip to Kingsmeadow on August 11.

Goal man: Casuals defender Danny Dudley found the net in last Friday's 4-1 defeat at Colliers Wood United

Careless Casuals

Corinthian Casuals boss Matt Howard was disappointed with last Friday's defeat at Colliers Wood United – but will not lose sleep over it.

Casuals have lost three of their four pre-season friendlies thus far, conceding 12 goals in the process.

Casuals kick-off their Ryman Division One South campaign with the visit of Sittingbourne on August 9 and that is all Howard is concerned with.

"In my 18 games in charge that was the worst performance in terms of attitude I have seen," he said.

"I am extremely laid back about pre-season. I do not really care about the results as long as the players are getting fit. August is when it counts."

DISAPPOINTMENT: Surbiton's Charlotte Calnan and Holly Munro were both in the England U16 squad which competed in a Five Nations tournament at Beeston last week. After a 1-0 win over Belgium, England lost 4-0 to both Germany and the Netherlands, and went down 2-0 to Spain in their last match. Eloise Stenner was in England's U18 squad which competed in a parallel tournament at the same venue. England drew 1-1 with Belgium, lost 3-2 to Germany and 3-1 to the Netherlands before ending on a high with a 3-2 win over Spain.

STALEMATE: Kingstonian were unable to take full advantage of half centuries from Imran Khalid (54) and Tahir Khan (56*) as they were held to a Surrey Championship winning draw by Allyn & Honor Oak on Saturday. The pair ensured Ks reached 219-7dec, but their side were left frustrated as the visitors held on to reach 172 with nine wickets down. Ks, still in the drop zone, head to Old Hamptonians on Saturday.

COMMONWEALTH KICK-OFF: Surbiton trio Hollie Webb, Georgie Twigg and Giselle Ansley start England's Commonwealth Games women's hockey campaign against Wales today, before further group B clashes with Malaysia (July 27), Australia (July 28) and Scotland (July 30).

Surrey can defend national schools' title

Kingston & Polytechnic Harrier Mae Thompson lifted the English School Athletics Championships team title with Surrey last week and reckons the team can repeat the feat in 2015, writes Stuart Amos.

The 18-year-old former Hinchley Wood School student put in a team captain's performance as she clocked 61.72 seconds in Birmingham last week to claim senior girls 400m hurdles silver behind champion Georgina Rogers and lead the squad to the team title to boot.

Surrey won the senior boys, intermediate girls and intermediate boys age groups as they collected 353 points overall from 98 finals to lift the Broadbridge Trophy ahead of Essex (342) and Kent (304.5).

"I'm absolutely over the moon," said girls team captain Thompson.

"It was always going to be a close run thing and we needed three relay wins on the final day to get there.

"I would like to think Surrey can win it again.

"Surrey athletics is so

Winning team: Surrey celebrate their title triumph strong. More than 100 athletes got the qualifying standard and the team could only take 60 athletes.

"Just to be selected was an honour, so to be captain as well and win a silver medal was brilliant."

NICE SHOES, NO PAIN

Food scientist turned designer jeweller, Heather Paine found her mobility and comfort increasingly affected by arthritis in her ankles and feet.

The problem was exacerbated by a painful condition known as hammer toes, where the toe joints curl downwards causing friction with footwear.

After enduring much discomfort, in 2012 Heather eventually had an operation on her left foot in an attempt to reduce the pain. Following the surgery, she was prescribed rigid, three-quarter length orthotics.

Heather takes up the story:

"The orthotics were ok, but they could only be used with a very limited range of unflattering footwear. I was still in discomfort a lot of the time".

Then, whilst shopping in Richmond town centre, Heather came across the Foot Solutions store in Red Lion Street.

She continues:

"I'd seen the Foot Solutions advertisements and decided to call in. I was very patiently and thoroughly taken through a detailed foot assessment process which included scans. Custom arch supports were recommended and I was also shown a selection of stylish, comfortable and orthotic-friendly shoes."

After consideration, Heather ordered the custom inserts together with some Mephisto and Brooks shoes.

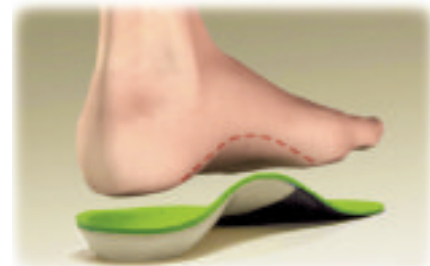

The after-sales service was also very thorough, as Heather explains:

"When the inserts arrived, staff at Foot Solutions spent a lot of time carefully adjusting them so that they provided a perfect fit for my feet in the new footwear. The improvement has been dramatic. Life is a lot less painful and I can wear nice shoes and sandals! I recently visited Brazil, where I spent a lot of time on my feet, touring and sightseeing, without experiencing any discomfort. I took a walking pole with me, but I didn't really need it.

I am more than happy to recommend Foot Solutions."
